I am grateful for the assistance and encouragement we have received in bringing together the fifth volume of Brief Encounters. I would like to thank our colleagues at CHASE, especially Clare Hunt, Steve Colburn, Emily Bartlett, Matt Fay, Simon Everett and Joseph Jones, without whose institutional memory, sage advice and technical expertise none of this would have been possible. My thanks to the many anonymous reviewers who gave of their expertise and time. And I am particularly grateful to my colleagues on the editorial team, Fiamma Mozzetta, Marta Colombo, Grace Thompson and Mina Radovic. All brought energy, ideas, professionalism and relentless good cheer to our work. It says much that we have yet to meet in person; this was not an easy year, but working with such brilliant colleagues made it considerably easier. But most importantly we are grateful to the authors who came forward with such varied and interesting ideas: without scholars there is no journal. I hope you, and they, enjoy the results of their labours.
